For the past twenty years, I have worked as a warehouseman for Wakefern, including during the 2020 pandemic. I supported my family through those tough times and lost coworkers to Covid. I never thought it could happen to me.

In early March, a week after my fortieth birthday, I had a 105-degree fever and was diagnosed with the flu. I was rushed to the ER, intubated, and put into a coma. The flu led to septic shock and MRSA, and I was placed on ECMO, receiving donated blood that saved my life.

I wouldn't be here today without the generosity of blood donors. That's why I am lending my name to support this blood drive and give back to what saved my life. When you donate blood, you give someone a chance at life. I hope to see everyone in the area come out and support this vital cause!!
